Norway's Wealth Fund Proposes Cutting $80 Billion in US Treasuries

RT NEWS

Norway's $2.3 trillion sovereign wealth fund recommended reducing US Treasury holdings from 70% to 50% in its fixed-income portfolio to boost returns through other debt types. The shift would reduce global government bonds by $106 billion, signaling decreased demand for US debt amid rising deficits.

The reason behind this change is to achieve a diversification of return sources.
