Disney’s 1930 Animation Pipeline Adapted for Modern Video Production

R/CLAUDECODE

A developer recreated Disney’s 1930 animation pipeline in a Claude Code workspace, producing videos through structured stages including voice, transcript, cues, scene, and render. The system can create multiple videos efficiently.

The contract’s ‘Person checks’ line matters more than anything else in it. A person reading each stage’s file before the next one runs is what stops one bad take from turning into a bad video.
